The 1994-95 Outlook

New faces going great places! Six new faces to be exact. And, ranked as high as fourth in the nation as a recruiting class in 1994.

Now in her twentieth season at the helm, head coach Chris Weller had possibly her best recruiting season ever bringing in six new valuable newcomers including five freshmen. Returning for Weller from last season's 15-13 mark, are five letterwinners including two starters.

Backcourt Depth is Strength

Seven backcourt players will be in the mix for three guard positions. Senior co-captain Karon Ferguson returns to the point position after starting all 28 games a year ago. Averaging 5.3 assists and 4.5 points a game, the Lanham, MD native is a gutsy athlete and a defensive specialist for the Terps. She tallied a career high of 13 points against 18th ranked Rutgers last season. Her season high of 12 assists came off a Wake Forest victory. The other starter was sophomore Lillian Purvis, who earned recognition on the ACC All-Rookie Squad last season. She returns with the most minutes logged from a year ago. A consistent all-around performer, Purvis has a soft touch from the perimiter and is also a three-point threat. Purvis led all scorers in the Terps victory over Texas as she scored 20 points including four treys. She saw many 40-minute games in 1993.

Sophomore Kwana Williams will see some duty at the point while also checking in at the guard spot. Williams, who played in the U.S. Olympic Festival this past summer, has good quickness and will be looked to for more scoring and consistency. Last season she tallied 1.9 points a game and 13.5 minutes. An excellent ball-handler, the Bronx, New York native sees the court well and is a solid defensive performer.

Three newcomers will earn valuable minutes early. Junior transfer Demetria Tutt had a fantastic two-year stint at Sullivan Junior College (KY) and will be a contender for valuable minutes on the court this season. She will battle Ferguson for point guard duties. A terrific ball handler and a fine shooter, Tutt led Sullivan JC to a national ranking and to a 29-2 overall record. She will be a serious three-point shooter and an assist leader before her Maryland career is over.

Freshman Kelley Gibson, who finished an illustrious career at nearby Easton High (MD), will see immediate action with her speed and shooting strengths. She is a dynamic guard who tallied over 2,000 points and 1,000 rebounds in high school. She is expected to make the transition easy to college play. A Baltimore, Maryland native Sonia Chase, who eclipsed the 1,000 point plateau at McDonogh School, will be a ferocious defender for the Terps and log minutes early as well.

A Young Front Court

Senior co-captain Kesha Camper is a versatile forward who has earned a starting duty after playing the role of the sixth person for the past two seasons. Camper has a nice touch from the paint and is also a quick and aggressive athlete. The 6-0 Salisbury, MD native has a tremendous work ethic and attitude and will be counted on for her leadership. Last season she tallied 8.8 points a game while grabbing 3.3 boards. Camper tallied a career-best of 33 points against Howard University in 1993. She played in all 28 games last season and started two games. She hit 50% of her shots which was second best on the squad

Two freshmen will be inaugurated early because of the lack of depth up front. Newcomer Stephanie Cross, who tallied over 2,000 points in her four-year career at North Rowan High (NC) will be a nice addition in the paint for Weller. The 6-0 lefthander has a consistent turnaround jumper and is aggressive. Kalisa Davis, a 6-2 forward, is a native of Glassboro, New Jersey and helped the squad to a 22-4 record and a County Championship. Tallying over 1,500 points in high school, Davis is a strong athlete who will see valuable minutes early on.

Lost from last season are three starters, all front court players. Forward Bonnie Rimkus, a First Team All-ACC choice, led the Terps with an 18.2 scoring average and a 10.1 rebounding mark. Forward Michele Andrew was second in scoring with a 13.6 mark and a 6.4 rebound average. Center Monica Adams finished third in scoring with an 11.2 mark while grabbing 5.5 boards.

Middle is Untested

Sophomore Nina Ohman, who saw action in 17 games last season, will be counted on for a big season in the paint. A 6-4 athlete from Helsinki, Finland, Ohman saw spot duty behind a veteran front court last season. She tallied a season best of 13 points and 24 minutes at home against Maryland-Eastern Shore. Adding assistance to the center role will be freshman Rachel Cimmier. At 6-3, Cimmier has good ball handling skills and a nice touch around the hoop. A Mount Flours, France native, Cimmier played at Mount Hebron (Ellicott City, MD) last season.

Tradition of Excellence at Maryland

Maryland has recorded ten 20-win seasons under Weller and has had a long list of other achievements. At the top of the list are three Final Four appearances, 14 National Tournament appearances, eight ACC Championships and a three-week No. 1 ranking in 1992.

Head Coach Chris Weller has tallied a 390-166 record in her 19 years. As the head coach of the US Select Team this past summer, Weller took the team to a 3-1 tally. While she begins her 20th season at her alma mater – she is still molding the Maryland basketball team into a tradition that is hard to match.

Five returners with little experience. Six newcomers eager to play for Maryland and Chris Weller.

These new faces will be going great places.

MIDNIGHT MADNESS AT COLE FIELD HOUSE

The Terps are introduced to the fans at Midnight Madness.

Over 13,000 screaming and eager fans jammed into Cole Field House on October 30, 1994 to watch the Terps practice at midnight and officially open the 1994-95 season. With the lights off, the young Terps were introduced with a laser show and fog lamps. The players were introdiced to center court followed by the staff. Chris Weller, who will be beginning her 20th monumental season, received a much deserved standing ovation which lasted for several minutes. After the introductions, the fans were able to watch the Terps scrimmage. It was an unbelievable night for those in attendance and a perfect way to begin the new season.

Leading her team to its sixth consecutive trip to the NCAA Tournament 1993, Weller is among an elite list of active Division I coaches to earn 390 career wins, ranking her 15th in the NCAA by victories. The squad finished 15-13 last season and 8-8 in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Under Weller, the Terrapins have been ranked in the Top 10 nationally on nine occasions and the Top 25, 14 times. In the last 17 years, all but four classes have participated in a Final Four.

Individually, players have achieved personal recognition under Weller as well. Maryland has had five Olympians, three Kodak All-American's and 27 athletes have played on international teams. Among these successes, Weller has seen all but one athlete who has finished her eligibility, earn a diploma. This is a tribute to her high expectations for her student-athletes.

Weller has been honored many times by the press and coaching fraternity including Naismith National Coach-of-the Year and Basketball Writer's Association of America Coach-of-the-Year both in 1992. She has twice been selected ACC Coach-of-the-Year (1989, 1992) by her peers. Weller has also been head coach of the US Select Team in 1986,1992 and 1994. This past summer, Weller took the squad to a 3-1 record.

Weller's dynasty began her first year as head coach in 1975 as the Terps finished with a 20-4 record. The very next year, Weller guided her squad to a first ever national ranking of 13th. Her third year brought her first ACC Championship trophy to College Park, opening a cabinet for which many more awards and trophies would be stored. In that year, 1978, the Terps reached a No. 2 national ranking and were among the elite to reach the first Final Four in women's basketball.

In 1982, Weller saw her team achieve a 25-7 record, a No. 3 ranking and another Final Four appearance. For the next two consecutive years, Maryland was in the Final 16 of the NCAA Tournament. In 1988, Weller took her squad to the Final 8 with a 26-6 record and in 1989, the squad was 29-3 recording the most wins in school history and advancing to the Final Four for the third time under Weller.

Many goals were accomplished for Weller in 1992. For the first time, her squad reached a No. 1 ranking in both the Associated Press and USA Today Polls from January 21 through February 11. Maryland's jump to the No. 1 spot from the No. 15 in the preseason was the second steepest climb in the history of the Associated Press Poll. On February 11, when No. 1 Maryland met No. 2 Virginia in Cole Field House, a sellout crowd of 14,500 broke the Atlantic Coast Conference record for attendance.

A 1966 Maryland graduate, Weller was a four-year varsity letterwinner in basketball and also participated on the swimming and lacrosse squads. Following graduation, she taught and coached at John F. Kennedy High School.

A popular speaker and teacher of the game, Weller returned for her Master's Degree in 1973 and became an assistant for two seasons under Dottie McKnight. In 1975, the Weller dynasty began, as she was elevated to head coach at her alma mater.

They Know Her Best

"When Chris took the head coaching job at Maryland in 1975, I was excited to host her team that year when I was at Madison College. I immediately recognized Chris as a promising young coach who would not only do a lot for her team, but for women's basketball overall. We opened up the next three seasons against each other and Maryland quickly became one of the most powerful teams in the nation. I salute Chris for all she has done in her 20 years at Maryland and for the time she has dedicated to her duties with the WBCA in the past 13 years."— Betty F. Jaynes, WBCA Executive Director

"Chris Weller has been very involved in women's basketball the past 20 years. She is definitely respected with regard to having an outstanding program each year. Chris has also given numerous hours to the foundation, rule changes, game changes and legislation through her involvement in USA Basketball and WBCA. She is a legend in the game and one of the outstanding coaches of today. The one thing that puts Chris in the elite of coaches is her fierce competitive spirit and her true concerns for her student-athletes education and well being."—Linda Sharp, Head Coach-Southwest Texas State

"Chris Weller is one of the most dedicated and detailed coaches I have ever had the opportunity to work with. She believes in hard work and commitment. She is very demanding, but at the same time, she cares about each player and their feelings. She gets from her players the very best they have to offer. The University of Maryland is very fortunate in having Chris Weller to head their Women's Basketball program. She is one of the best at what she does and I am honored to have had the opportunity to be associated with her in the Atlantic Coast Conference and coach alongside her in the USA Basketball Organization."— Marynell Meadors, Head Coach - Florida State

"Chris has to be considered among the special group of coaches who lead the way for women's basketball to emerge in the 20th century. Her legacy of great success, consistency, and pure class along the way is an inspiration for all coaches. Besides, you have to love someone that intense who also has a great sense of humor."— Chris Gobrecht - Head Coach - University of Washington

"It was a great honor to work with Chris this past summer as part of her staff for USA Basketball. She is a tremendous teacher of the game and I was impressed with her preparation and organization. The one impression of Chris that stands out most in my mind is that she is a woman of great integrity - she stands up for what she believes in. All coaches of the game would do well to model themselves after Chris Weller."— Barbara Stevens, Head Coach-Bentley College

"When I first met Chris Weller, I met a strong, caring and unselfish person. Her main concern is the growth and welfare of her student-athletes. As I've grown to know her over the years, these traits have magnified. Chris is a pioneer and a great role model for women's basketball. Congratulations, Chris!"— Dee Todd, Assistant Commissioner - ACC

"Coach Weller has not only been a excellent coach, she has also been an excellent teacher. She taught me to strive to be the best in whatever I do, whether is be on the court or in the classroom."— Monica Adams - Class of 1994

"I knew when Chris was a player at Maryland that she would someday be an excellent coach. She always asked good questions. When she was an assistant coach for me - she was a big asset for the team. I've been extremely proud of her accomplishments at Maryland. Chris is a very special person."— Dottie McNight - First Maryland Women's Basketball Coach (1971-1975)

Winning with Weller

Chris Weller works around the clock for Maryland and its women's basketball program. It is a 24-hour job that she loves. She has been committed to her profession and totally committed to her players and their success for 19 years. "She has an open door policy," says senior co-captain Karon Ferguson. "She is a down to earth and approachable person. You can always talk to her about school, basketball or anything She will always take the time to stop what ever she is doing and listen."

As she celebrates her 20th season at Maryland and her 400th career victory - Chris is still molding the Maryland basketball team into a tradition that is hard to match. A proven winner.A dedicated professional

Her teams have a long list of achievements. At the top of the list are three Final Four appearances, 14 National Tournament appearances, eight ACC Championships and a three-week No. 1 national ranking in 1992. Her program has been named by the Associated Press as the fourth best women's program in the history of the NCAA.

Weller has been honored as the Naismith National Coach of the Year, Basketball Writer's Coach of the Year, twice named ACC Coach of the Year and head coach of the US Select Team on three occasions.

Highly revered A role model

"She is a very highly respected coach, " said Linda Sharp, head basketball coach at Southwest Texas State. "She has an outstanding program year after year She is a legend in the game and one of the outstanding coaches of today. The one thing that puts Chris in the elite of coaches is her fierce competitive spirit and her true concerns for her student-athletes education and well being "

The same respect is echoed by her peers in the Atlantic Coast Conference. "Chris is one of the most dedicated and detailed coaches I have ever had the opportunity to work with," said Florida State head coach Marynell Meadors. "She believes in hard work and commitment. She is very demanding, but at the same time, she cares about each player and their feelings. She gets from her players the very best they have to offer. The University of Maryland is very fortunate in having Chris Weller to head their basketball program. She is one of the best at what she does and I am honored to have had the opportunity to be associated with her in the Atlantic Coast Conference and coach alongside her in the USA Basketball Organization."

Not only has she taken many responsibilities at Maryland, she has also been committed to the WBCA as their legislative chairperson for several years.

"When Chris took the head coaching job at Maryland in 1975, I was excited to host her team that year when I was at Madison College," said current WBCA Executive Director, Betty Jaynes. "I immediately recognized Chris as a promising young coach who would not only do a lot for her team, but for women's basketball overall. We opened up the next three seasons against each other and Maryland quickly became one of the most powerful teams in the nation I salute Chris for all she has done in her 20 years at Maryland and for the time she has dedicated to her duties with the WBCA in the past 13 years."

This season Chris will become one of only 20 active coaches in the nation to earn 400 victories in her career Just 10 victories shy of the mark, Weller is recognized as one of the elite coaches in the country and was given the honor of coaching the U.S. Select Team this past summer - her third time in eight years.

"It was a great honor to work with Chris this past summer as part of her staff for USA Basketball," said Barbara Stevens, head coach of a highly successful Bentley College program. "She is a tremendous teacher of the game and I was impressed with her preparation and organization The one impression of Chris that stands out most in my mind is that she is a woman of great integrity - she stands up for what she believes in. All coaches of the game would do well to model themselves after Chris Weller."

Very devoted.Successful and popular

As Chris sat in front of a camera in Cole Field House last week to get her photo taken for an athletic publication, a man crawled out of a phone booth and got her attention

"Excuse me, Chris.. Chris Weller," he said. "I am talking to this guy on the phone who has always wanted to say hi to you his name is Brian. could you say, hello?" Without skipping a beat, Chris delivered the hello as if Brian was a friend.

It was quite a sight to see two weeks ago during Midnight Madness at Cole Field House when the popular Maryland graduate walked out on the floor to be introduced. The field house was dark and the spotlight was on one of the most dynamic coaches in America The crowd erupted into a long ovation - they were recalling that No. 1 ranking, those Final Four and Final Eight teams.. they were thanking her for 19 great years at College Park. It was a crowd of 13,000 people who knew where Chris Weller had been and where she was going It was quite a sight.

Monumental Victories for Weller

100th Victory: February 23, 1980 vs St. Joseph
150th Victory: March 4, 1982 vs Missouri
200th Victory: December 5, 1984 vs Georgetown
250tb Victory: January 23, 1988 vs N.C. State
300th Victory: December 28, 1989 vs Long Beach
350th Victory: February 22, 1992 vs Duke

Another night that will stand out in Weller's mind forever is the evening of February 11, 1992.

With Maryland holding on to a No. 1 national ranking, a No. 2 team in Virginia would enter Cole Field House A sellout crowd of 14,500, a live television audience and over 125 members of the media were on hand to see one of the greatest events in the history of the sport. The crowd was an ACC record and the seventh biggest, at the time, to ever see a women's game "Chris has to be considered among the special group of coaches who lead the way for women's basketball to emerge in the 20th century, " said Chris Gobrecht, head coach at the University of Washington. "Her legacy of great success, consistency, and pure class along the way is an inspiration for all coaches. Besides, you have to love someone that intense who also has a great sense of humor."

She has seen Maryland through the rough times - she has seen Maryland at its peak. Five years ago, Maryland reached the NCAA Final Four Two years ago, Maryland was ranked No.1 in the United States. Perhaps Maryland needs to thank the person that brought Chris to Maryland The person that first saw that she could quickly become a legend

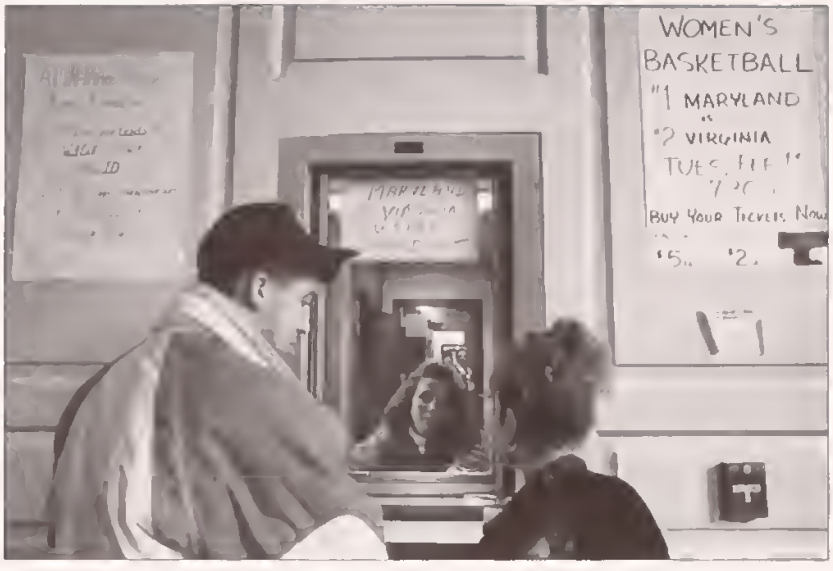
"I knew when Chris was a player at Maryland that she would someday be an excellent coach," said Dottie McKnight, who was the first Maryland women's basketball coach at Maryland. "She always asked good questions. When she was an assistant coach for me - she was a big asset for the team. I've been extremely proud of her accomplishments at Maryland. The best way to describe her is that she is a very special person "

Sincere and Honest.Respected and Trusted

There are many words that can describe this person But, Dottie McKnight probably described her best.

There's Something Happening Here

Written By Tony Kornheiser - Washington Post Columnist



Traffic jam! I am stuck in a traffic jam for 25 minutes, going nowhere on Stadium Drive in College Park, waiting to get into Cole Field House to see a women's basketball game between Maryland and Virginia Backed up on an exit ramp for women's hoops! What is this world coming to? I am a doubter. I do not believe 14,500 people will go to a regular season women's college basketball game - even if it is between No. 1 and No 2. I do not believe they will take up every seat, and the overflow will gather along the rail of the upper deck, and scream and yell continuously throughout the game. I do not believe they will scalp tickets for five times their face value. I do not believe they will do this for a game where no one dunks. I do not believe that the atmosphere surrounding a women's game will look and smell and feel exactly like the men's Final Four

I am wrong

I have seen the future of college basketball

It wears a ponytail.

"It felt so good to walk up that tunnel and see all those people," Maryland forward Dafne Lee is saying "During the afternoon, I heard there'd be standing room - but I said, "To see it is to believe it." Then I saw it. It was like being at a part of history "

The entire ambiance - the game, the crowd, the scramble for tickets - resonates with a Big Event quality that prompts people to save their stubs and press them in a book somewhere. For all its storied history as a basketball gym, for all the tempting ACC matchups, for the 50 NCAA tournament games it hosted over the years, including two Final Fours, Cole Field House never had the No. 1 and No 2 teams play on its hallowed floor Now they're here, and they're from the same conference to boot. Maryland Athletic Director Andy Geiger greets so many folks he knows - but hasn't seen at a women's game before - he must feel like a maitre d'.

The crowd gets into it from the jump; even before the jump, actually - during the player introductions. The cheers are so loud, and the stands so thick with red pompoms, , you think you're in the world's noisiest poppy field And it's an educated crowd. Nobody has to tell them women's basketball is no longer played with three women on each side of the midcourt line. When one of Virginia's big, identical Burge twins commits a foul with 15:12 to go, they no only know which Burge (Heidi), they know what number foul (four). You realize how seriously the game is taken when you hear them chanting disapprovingly at the referees after an especially unpopular call. That says these people think real basketball is being played. "If you have school spirit, it doesn't matter if it's men's basketball or women's basketball," Virginia guard Tammi Reiss is saying. "Our people would die for us."

It's such a big event, most of Maryland's men's team players show up. Evers Burns is particularly stoked, whenever Maryland center Jessie Hicks touches the ball, you can hear him enthusiastically shouting, "Go to work, big fella " The spectacular point guards, Virginia's Dawn Staley and Maryland's Limor Mizrachi, routinely bring Burns out of his seat, as they maneuver up court, dribbling the ball with wizardry behind their backs and between their legs. "You put those two on the same team," Burns says in a dreamy anticipation," and you've got the best back court in women's history."

The game is everything you can hope for. Both teams run well. Neither team breaks away. The first half ends, 42-40. The second half sees Virginia quickly go up by nine, and Maryland hang tough, with Dafne Lee getting 15 successive Terrapins points in one sweet five-minute stretch late in the game. At the buzzer Maryland has the ball and a last, desperate shot for a win. It misses and they lose, 75-74 "Aside from winning," Maryland Coach Chris Weller is saying, "we couldn't have asked for more."

At the end 14,500 people are standing And applauding

"This is where we want to be," Tammy Reiss is saying as pens and microphones crowd around "Coming out of high school, I never thought I'd see women's basketball where it's at today Not in a million years did I dream it. Because the men's game is so much more exciting, so much more athletic - the guys play above the rim!" She smiles, maybe somewhat in envy. "We'll never challenge them But now we're getting on TV, and people are getting a glimpse of our game, and responding to it. Crowds like this are going to become more common. I can feel it happening."

This has been said before. More than a decade ago, when Carol Blazejowski and Nancy Lieberman were in their flower, there were predictions that women's basketball would ride the crest of equal opportunity to become the next great growth sport. But a women's pro league fizzled, and the sport seemed to lapse into hibernation. Now, if only for a night, there's standing room only at Cole. There are long rows of seats reserved for press, and there are TV cameras at courtside, telecasting the game live. Women basketball players are being asked about floating zone defenses and overloads off the stack, and men reporters are taking down every word they say. If only or a night, Dafne Lee feels what it's like to be a big-time college athlete. If only for a night, she can relate to Walt Williams.

"This game is not a blip on the screen." Andy Geiger is saying confidently. "It's going to happen. You'll see."

Terps End 15-13:

The Terps finished the 1993-94 season with a 15-13 record and even 8-8 mark in the ACC. With eight Associated Press top 25 teams in their schedule, Maryland had the toughest schedule of any ACC squad. The team started strong with a 3-0 record, but fell to then No. 13 USC, 92-85. Their first win against a ranked team occured on February 8 with a nine point victory over then No. 17 Rutgers. In a pulse-pounding game on February 23 against then No. 8 Virginia, the Terps dueled with the Cavaliers through 40 minutes of regulation and two overtimes before succumbing, 86-83. The Terps ended the regular season with an inspired 84-46 win over Clemson.

Lillian Purvis Honored:

Guard Lillian Purvis was named to the ACC's All-Rookie team. Purvis is the third Terp freshman awarded this honor and the youngest of last season's starters. Purvis also averaged 35.2 minutes per game, the most of any Maryland player.

ACC Tournament:

Maryland overpowered Duke 60-45 in second round action with 19 points and 17 rebounds from forward Bonnie Rimkus. The Terps then fell to Virginia 63-45 in the semifinals.

Dominating Defense:

On January 28, the Terps defeated Florida State 81-39. The Seminoles' point total was the lowest ever for an ACC opponent. Against Georgia Tech on January 30, the Terps allowed the Yellow Jackets only five field goals in the second half and only 46 points in the game. The team's scoring defense of 61.1 was first in the ACC and 26th in the nation.

Aggressive Offense:

Maryland shot a school-record 73.9 percent (34-46) from the field against FSU on January 28. This percentage was the second best FG% mark in the nation. The Terps' season FG% of .469 ranked second in the ACC and 26th in the country.

Maryland in the Rankings:

The Terps held three spots in the Associated Press Poll during the season. The team was ranked 24th until the third week of the season when they moved up to the 23rd spot. On December 13, the Terps took over the No. 20 spot until they fell to the University of Washington two weeks later and were pushed out of the poll.

Rimkus Finishes Record-Setting Career:

Forward Bonnie Rimkus ended her astounding career with a fine season. Rimkus averaged 18.2 ppg along with 10.1 rpg during the 1993-94 season, finishing second in the ACC in both categories. She scored a career high of 38 points against UNC on February 20, and finished the year with 12 double-doubles. Rimkus also earned first team All-ACC honors. The 1990-91 ACC Rookie of the Year finished her career at Maryland with a total of 1218 points and 672 rebounds, only the ninth Maryland player to score 1000 points while also grabbing 500 rebounds.

Capitalizing in Cole:

The Terps played 13 home games in Cole Field House last season for a combined 9-4 tally. Under the direction of Coach Weller, the Terps are 197-42 for an astounding .828 percentage in Cole.

Marvelous Michele:

Forward Michele Andrew made her last season a special one by winning second team All-ACC honors. Andrew was second on the team in both points scored (13.6 ppg) and rebounds snagged (6.4 rpg). The 6-2 native of Finland finished 12th in scoring in the ACC and fourth in the league in free throw percentage (.776). Andrew finished her career with 887 total points and 452 total rebounds.

Assistance Please:

Guard Karon Ferguson led the Terps in assists with 5.3 per game. She was at the top of the ACC in the individual assists category wtih 12 vs. Wake Forest on January 15. Ferguson finished second in the league, averaging 1.1 assists more than the next closest player.

Kesha Scores and Scores:

Reserve guard Kesha Camper tallied 33 points vs. Howard on November 29, more than doubling her previous career high of 12. She was 12 of 19 from the field and 9 of 10 from the foul line.

The 1995 Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament

After a 10-year stay in the Cumberland County Memorial Arena in Fayetteville, N.C., the ACC Tournament moved south in 1992 to Winthrop Coliseum. The Tournamnet in 1995 begins Thursday, March 2 and ends with the Finals on March 5. Located near the North Carolina/South Carolina state line, the Winthrop Colisum open in 1982 as a multi-event facility suitable for concerts, basketball games, banquets, conventions, trade shows and sports camps. Its maximum seating capacity is 6,100.

The Tradition

Consistency. It's the mark of true excellence in any endeavor.

However, in today's world of intercollegiate athletics, competition has become so balanced and so competitive that it is virtually impossible to maintain a high level of consistency.

Yet the Atlantic Coast Conference has defied the odds. Now in its 42nd year of competition, the ACC has long enjoyed the reputation as one of the strongest and most competitive intercollegiate conferences in the nation. And that is not mere conjecture, the numbers support it.

Atlantic Coast Conference schools have captured 52 NCAA and AIAW championships, including 29 in men's sports and 23 in women's competition. In addition, 87 men and 23 women have earned the coveted title of NCAA champion.

If success is best measured in terms of wins and losses, then the ACC is unrivaled in NCAA Basketball Tournament history. The men's and women's programs have combined for 13 consecutive trips to the Final Four and 34 appearances overall.

The league's women's basketball program ranks among the best in the country in terms of overall NCAA Tournament record. With 58 wins in 49 appearances, the conference is listed second best in total wins and total appearances.

Newly introduced in 1992-93 was a women's television package that showcased the premier women's conference in over 28 million homes nationwide. Included in the package, that will run again this season, is a specially created "Sports Sunday" package that will include each of the nine women's teams.

ACC Basketball is more than numbers though. The faces behind the men's and women's programs account for 22 national player of the year awards, including Dawn Staley's player recognition in 1991 and 1992 and coach's disinction for Chris Weller's recognition in 1992. The ACC has produced 29 Olympians, including coaches and players. Maryland is the only women's school in the conference with Olympians; Tara Heiss and Kris Kirchner in 1980 and Vicky Bullett in 1988 and 1992.

The ACC also stands at the forefront of intercollegiate athletics in terms of academic accomplishments of it's student athletes. That accomplishment is nowhere better reflected than in the CFA Academic Achievement Award which is awarded annually to a CFA member institution with the highest graduation rate among members of its football team. Eight times over the past 114 years, an ACC school has claimed the award.

The Championships

The conference currently conducts championships in 23 sports, including 12 for men and 11 for women.

The first ACC Championship was held in swimming on February 25, 1954, while the league's inaugural basketball tournament took place March 4-6, 1954, at North Carolina State drawing 36,000 fans over the three days. The conference did not conduct championships in cross country, wrestling or tennis during the first year.

The 12 sports for men include football, cross-country, soccer, basketball, swimming, indoor and outdoor track, wrestling, baseball, tennis, golf and lacrosse. Fencing, which was started in 1971, was discontinued in 1981.

Women's sports were initiated in 1977 with the first championship meet being held in tennis at Wake Forest, October 6-8. The first women's basketball tournament was held February 9-11, 1978 at the University of Virginia. Championships for women are currently conducted in cross-country, volleyball, field hockey, soccer, basketball, swimming, indoor and outdoor track, tennis, softball and golf.

The History

The Atlantic Coast Conference was founded May 8, 1953, at Sedgefield Inn near Greensboro, North Carolina. The conference's seven charter members from three states included Clemson University, Duke University, University of Maryland, University of North Carolina, North Carolina State University, University of South Carolina and Wake Forest University.

The withdrawal of the seven schools from the Southern Conference came early in the morning of May 8, 1953, during the annual spring meeting of the conference. On June 14, 1953, the seven members met in Raleigh, NC where a set of bylaws were adopted and the name Atlantic Coast Conference was officially recognized.

Dr. James T. Penney of the University of South Carolina was elected temporary chairman and became the ACC's first president when the school's met again on June 14, 1953. Professor F. W. Clonts of Wake Forest was named Vice President and Dr. Oliver Cornwell of North Carolina was elected secretary-treasurer.

On December 4, 1953, the Conference again met at Sedgefield Inn and officially admitted the University of Virginia to the league. Virginia began active championship participation with the 1953-54 basketball season.

The ACC set up office at the King Cotton Hotel in Greensboro, NC on July 1, 1954. The office was moved to 338 North Elm Street on July 1, 1966 and then to 2100-N West Cornwallis Drive in April of 1980. The conference moved to its current site at 6011 Landmark Center in April 1989.

The first and only withdrawal of a member from the ACC occurred on June 30, 1971 when the University of South Carolina tendered its resignation. The Conference continued with seven members until April 3, 1978, when Georgia Institute of Technology was admitted. The Atlanta, Ga, school became a playing member of the ACC on July 1, 1979, but did not become eligible for the football championship until the 1983 season. The Conference expanded to nine teams with the admittance of Florida State University on September 15, 1990. The Seminoles became a playing member of the ACC on July 1, 1991, but did not become eligible for the football championship until the 1992 season.

The University

COLE FIELD HOUSE

When college basketball was achieving its most explosive growth - from the late 1950's to the late 1970's - there was one college gymnasium on the East Coast that sat as many as 12,000 fans. Cole Field House epitomized the new big time, main event status of college hoops, the sport of network TV and emerging legends. It stands today as a building that faces cosmetic renewal over the next several years, but Cole's charisma will not be tampered with; there was not a bad seat on December 2, 1955, when it was dedicated in a men's game against Virginia, and there is not a better place to watch a game today. Only in a building like Cole, where history has been routinely made, can the fan feel the echo of tradition, and experience, even in the empty Cole, the electricity generated by buzzer beaters and a thousand slam dunks.

Cole was dedicated as the Student Activities Center, a $3.3 million project that was erected under the tutelage of Board of Regents Chair, Judge William P. Cole, Jr, and President Wilson Elkins. A year after the dedication, the building was named in honor of Cole, who served the Board of Regents for 25 years.

Although Cole has remained the same basketball hall it was built to be, there have been refinements. Scoreboards were installed recently that will not only tell the fan what the score is, but also how loud thev are cheering. A new floor design was added last year. Cole's seating also grew from its original base, and 14,5000 fans can now root for the Red and White at any game.

As championships were awarded over the years, Cole got some of the very best. The 1966 and 1970 Men's Basketball Final Fours were held her. In 1990, the first and second rounds of the Eastern Regionals were held in Cole Field House. The NCAA Wrestling Championship was held here in 1960, 1972, 1978, 1987, and 1990, and the NCAA Women's Volleyball Championship took place here in 1990.

Cole Field House is home to most of the athletic department offices, and yearly hosts thousands who visit just to see where so much hoop history has been made.

Dr. William E. Kirwan
University President

After more than 25 years of service as a professor and administrator at the University, Dr. William E. Kirwan was appointed president of the University of Maryland at College Park on February 1, 1989. He served as acting president of the university from August 1, 1988, until the time of his appointment as president.

Dr. Kirwan joined the university in 1964 as an assistant professor of mathematics. He rose through the faculty ranks as associate professor (1968-72), professor (1972-present), and the chair of the Department of Mathematics (1977-81).

In 1981, he was appointed vice chancellor for academic affairs, College park's chief academic post. As Vice Chancellor, Dr. Kirwan raised admission standards, increased the number of merit scholarships, and graduate fellowships, and established an academic planning process.

During his tenure as President, the University has played a pivotal role in all of the university's most significant initiatives such as: increasing emphasis on undergraduate education; raising admission standards while reducing undergraduate enrollment; increasing the number of merit scholarships and graduate fellowships; recruiting and retaining outstanding faculty; and exceeding the desegregation goals for the enrollment of black undergraduate students.

Dr. Kirwan is known for his ability to see beyond the institution's day-to-day problems, and for his talent as a consensus builder among the large and diverse campus community. Under his leadership, the university undertook a major restructuring of its academic organization, going from a divisional system to a more traditional system of colleges and schools. Subsequently, when the state's economic decline forced a reduction of this university's budget, he oversaw the streamlining of the university's academic offerings through the elimination of a college and 32 degree programs.

Dr. Kirwan is a member of numerous honorary and professional societies, including Phi Beta Kappa, the American Mathematical Society, and the Mathematical Association of America. Recently, he was inducted into the Order of King Leopold II by the Belgian government and into the University of Kentucky Hall of Distinguished Alumni. Dr. Kirwan is the co-editor of the book Advances in Complex Analysis, and the author of many published articles on mathematical research. He served as the editor of the Proceedings of the American Mathematical Society from 1977 to 1985. He chaired the mathematical Sciences in the Year 2000 Committee, a task force created by the National Research Council (NRC) to improve mathematics education at the nation's colleges and universities during the next decade and currently serves on the NRC's Committee on Science Literacy.

Recently he as appointed to serve on the Board of Directors of the Council for International Exchange of Scholars, the body that oversees the Fulbright Exchange program. Among other board positions, Dr. Kirwan serves as a member of the Board of Directors of the World Trade Center Institute, the Baltimore Council on Foreign Affairs, and the Greater Washington Board of Trade. He also serves on the American Council on Education's Commission on Women in Higher Education, and chairs the Prince George's County Board of Education's Citizen's Advisory Committee.

Born in Louisville, Kentucky, on April 14, 1938, Dr. Kirwan received a bachelor's' degree in mathematics from the University of Kentucky in 1960. He holds a master's (1962) and Ph.D. (1964) degrees in mathematics from Rutgers University.

Dr. Kirwan and his wife, Patricia, have a son who received his bachelor's and master's degrees in architecture from the College Park campus, and a daughter who received her bachelor's degree in journalism from the university.

Yow, whose tenure as Athletic Director at Saint Louis University was marked by a commitment to excellence in academics as well as athletics for the university's student athletes, was named August 15, 1994 to direct the athletic program at the University of Maryland by President William E. Kirwan.

At Saint Louis University, Yow led the effort which enabled the university to achieve a 92% graduation rate for its student athletes. This rate placed Saint Louis 10th among the 300 Division I institutions in percent of student athlete graduations in 1993. Yow also brings to her new position an impressive record of athletic success, both as an athletic director and as a basketball coach.

Under Yow's leadership, the Saint Louis University men's basketball program was revitalized. The team returned to the NCAA Championship in 1994 for the first time in 37 years. And, the men's soccer team was a regular contender for the national championship.

Noted for enormous energy, Yow has increased significantly the marketing, promotion and corporate sponsorship of Saint Louis University's athletic programs. Last year, the Billikens ranked second only to the Razorbacks of Arkansas among all NCAA schools in percentage increase of men's basketball attendance.

Prior to becoming an athletic director, Yow had a highly successful career as a woman's basketball coach. She was the first coach in NCAA history to lead previously unranked basketball team at three different NCAA Division I schools to top 20 rankings. She coached at the University of Kentucky, Oral Roberts University, and the University of Florida.

Yow has held positions of increasing importance within the NCAA. She served as a member of the NCAA Council, the primary governance body for the NCAA and the Division I Steering Committee. Yow was also a member of the Executive Committee of the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics.

In commenting on the appointment, President Kirwan said, "We are very fortunate to have attracted Debbie Yow to this position. She has all the qualities we were looking for – commitment to the highest standards of academic and athletic performance, a proven record in the promotion of intercollegiate athletics, boundless energy, strong management skills, and a position of national leadership on the important issues facing athletics: reform, cost containment, and gender equity."

Yow, 44, is the first woman athletic director in the Atlantic Coast Conference and one of only 14 in the NCAA Division I category. She has been an athletic administrator for 11 years and was the Director of Athletics at Saint Louis University since 1990. A 1974 graduate of Elon College with a B.A. in English, she began her coaching career at Burlington and Eastern Guilford High Schools in North Carolina. She went to the University of Kentucky in 1976 as the head women's basketball coach, leaving the institution in 1981 to become the head coach at Oral Roberts University. In 1983, she was appointed head coach of women's basketball at the University of Florida. She assumed the position of assistant director of the University of Florida Gator Boosters, Inc. in 1985. From 1987 to 1990, she served as associate athletic director at the University of North Carolina, Greensboro.

Yow earned her bachelor of arts degree in English from Elon College in North Carolina, a masters degree in counseling from Liberty University and a Ph.D. from Baptist Christian University.

The Gibsonville, North Carolina native is married to Dr. William W. Bowden.

Senior Associate Director of Athletics

Dr. Suzanne Tyler is the heart of Maryland athletics. Her 20-year association with the University has seen her serve the athletic department in almost every capacity imaginable. As a nationally respected coach to highly respected administrator to confidant of student-athletes, Tyler envelopes herself in an enthusiastic red and white.

In 1990, Tyler was given the Interim Athletic Director role to direct the 23 sport intercollegiate athletic program while the University sought a permanent Athletic Director. She held the position for nearly three months.

Her success has been extraordinary on both the athletic and academic levels. She is one of only a handful of coaches in history to win NCAA Championships in two different sports - lacrosse in 1981 and 1987 and field hockey in 1986. She served for 16 years as the lacrosse coach and 14 years as the field hockey mentor. In 1990, while still serving as head lacrosse coach, she served double-duty as the interim athletic director. That season, the squad lost in the finals of the NCAA Championship Game. She was named the Lacrosse National Coach of the Year in 1984 and 1986.

Her career reaches into the academic realm, as well. She has earned academic honors at each stage of her career - as an undergraduate at Northeastern University in 1969, in receiving her master's degree from Penn State in 1972 and her Ph.D. from Maryland in 1986.

She is currently a member of the NCAA Women's Volleyball Committee.

Tyler and her husband Dennis Casey, reside in Beltsville, MD with their son Andrew and daughter Alexis.

ACADEMIC SUPPORT

There is an insistence in the Maryland basketball program that student-athletes get a degree in a career field that will enhance their life after College Park. The insistence is underlined by Coach Chris Weller and her staff, by the athletic administration, and by the Academic Support Unit of the Department of Athletics.

Dr. Javaune Adams-Gaston

Dr. Javaune Adams-Gaston, educator and clinical psychologist, is the Assistant Athletic Director for Athletic Student Services. She oversees the student-athlete's educational and medical well-being by her management of the Academic Support Unit and the Athletic Medicine support staff.

A 1978 graduate of the University of Dubuque with a B.S. in biology, psychology and general sciences, she earned her Master's degree in Clinical Psychology from Loras College in 1980 and her Ph.D in Counseling Psychology from Iowa State in 1983. She was appointed to direct student counseling in the athletic department in 1988.

Dr. Adams-Gaston regularly provides time for individual student-athletes as educational advisor and counselor. Her hands-on approach extends to a thorough series of seminars she and her staff hold that train the student-athlete in pertinent education beyond the classroom. Seminars cover time management, study skills, stress management, motivation, drug education, career planning and vocational mentorship. The school year begins for newly recruited student-athletes with not only an academic orientation program, but also a seminar on inter-acting with the news media by nationally known expert Kathleen Hessert.

Assisting Dr. Adams-Gaston are three experienced assistants.

John Bowman is Associate Director for Student Services for Academic Support. He returns to Academic Support after spending the past three years in the Office of Undergraduate Admissions. He had previously been Senior Advisor in Academic Support from 1987 through 1991. He was also an Athletic Advisor in 1986 in the Department of Undergraduate Studies, and a coordinator in the campus's Intensive Education Development Program (1979-1986).

A 1969 graduate of Oberlin, he earned a Master's in Education from Case-Western Reserve in 1976.

Liz Friedman begins her fourth year as a full-time athletic department employee after four years of assisting student-athletes on a part-time basis in the ASU. A native of Rockville, Md., and a graduate of College Park, she coordinates the Academic Support Unit's satisfactory progress monitoring system for all athletes, and works daily with the football team in all aspects of academic support. The monitoring system is effective because of the full communication between the ASU staff, the faculty, and student-athletes.

Don Pearman is in his third year at College Park, but his experience in the University System numbers five years. Pearman works directly with the men's basketball team on a year-round support system. He formerly was program director of the Meyerhoff Scholarships at the University of Maryland at Baltimore County campus. A model program of minority recruitment in the fields of mathematics and science, the Meyerhoff program is widely emulated. In the ASU, Pearman is responsible for post-graduate scholarship endeavors, the unit's tutorial program, and he monitors six Varsity sports.

Pearman, a native of Brooklyn, N.Y., received both his Bachelor's degree in sociology and his Master's degree in counseling from St. Lawrence University.

College Park Academic Support

Towards a good start

The Academic Support Unit will teach an orientation course for freshman student athletes (Education 108, Orientation to the University) to start the fall semester. The program will be taught by the Academic Support staff and concentrated on skills and development issues. The course is intended to make the transition to college life user friendly.

The program allows the newcomer to balance their dual roles of academics and athletics in an unfamiliar environment. Student athletes are taught organizational skills, which include note taking, time management, pro-active planning, learning strategies, test-taking, and writing skills.

Making the first year special at Maryland

The University's First Year Focus program is designed to see that the new student gets off to a good start at College Park. It has three parts.

To make sure the new student becomes acquainted with the campus's most important resource-its faculty — First Year Focus provides the student with the opportunity to study with a member of the faculty in a small class, appropriate for first year students, devoted to that faculty member's scholarly interests.

The University invites the new student to participate in an innovative program called Connections: Course Clusters, which enables them to enroll in a variety of thematically related courses, supplemented by a one-credit linking seminar. Course Clusters not only allows the new student to examine a given subject intensely from a variety of disciplinary perspectives, but will also give you the opportunity to develop a network of friends who share intellectual interests.

Vicki Ogbogu
Academic Support

The Student Government Association arranges for the new student to participate in its First Year Books activities. SGA selects a noteworthy book which it hopes will be an intellectual starting point for the incoming class of students. Many courses adopt it and incorporate it into their curricula. The book inevitably becomes subject to campus-wide debate in seminars, lectures, and even performances. The new student's copy of the selected book is waiting at orientation.

First Year Focus is designed to make the big university small, to allow the vast resources of a research university with some of the intimacy of a small college. The College Park Scholars Program and the University Honors Program also serve the same end.

College Park Scholars is a new program designed to acquaint entering first-year students with the rich texture of academic life at the university. The program encourages students who share common intellectual interests to study together in courses organized around common themes and to live together in a selected residence hall. The Scholars program provides a focus for study, advising and a variety of educational and social activities.

The University Honors Program provides the university's most academically talented students a challenging and exciting range of seminar-style classes, a close-knit community, and contact with outstanding faculty. Typically, freshmen and sophomores broaden their intellectual horizons in a wide variety of specially designed Honors seminars and Honors versions of regular courses, most of which fulfill general education requirements. A Honors lecture series, a literary magazine as well as a vibrant social and cultural life complement the academic offerings. Many of these activities take place in Anne Arundel Hall, the Honors Living Learning Center, which is the center of the Honors Program.

THE TRADITION

Testudo is a Diamondback turtle. Like some other famous personages born into the Depression of the 1930s, the derivation of his name is cloudy. But it is likely that his moniker is derived from the scientific classification for turtle (testudines). Or the top turtle could be named after testudo gigantia, a species native to the African nation of Seychelles and one of its remote islands, Aldabra. Or the name could have come from a dictionary definition that says the word, testudo, was derived from the Latin and meant a shelter held over the head of Roman soldiers -like a tortoise shell. These explanations are a long way from the Chesapeake Bay where the Diamondback lives.

When Testudo had his coming out on May 23, 1933, he was thrown into a world filled with intimidating mascots — Wildcats, Tigers, Devils, Wolves, Bears — thought up over a half-century of intercollegiate competition. Maryland College Park was consolidated from different state schools in 1920 to form the base of today's wide-ranging state system, and the remodeled Maryland needed a flag carrier to do battle with Wahoos, Lions and Generals.

Dr. H.C. Byrd, a football coach who later became University President, recommended the Diamondback as mascot in 1932 in response to the student newspaper's search for an "official" leader. Byrd's childhood in Crisfield, Md., apparently included skirmishes with this brand of snapping turtle, indigenous to the Bay. The school paper was in fact already called The Diamondback, and when the Class of 1933 stepped forward with the idea of giving the University a permanent bronzed version as its graduation gift, Testudo's family was in to stay.

Maryland had been referring to itself as Old Liners, yet another name whose derivation no one seems sure of. Historians are in a scrimmage over whether the nickname is a reference to a Revolutionary War Troop of Maryland soldiers who distinguished themselves on the field of battle, or they feel it could refer to a squabble with Pennsylvanians over just where the border between the two states should be.

The Class of '33 raised money for casting a Diamondback by holding its Senior Prom on campus to save money on expenses. And the yearbook and Student Government Association chipped-in. Edwin C. Mayo, Class of '04 and a former quarterback, donated at cost the 300 pound bronzed beauty as President of Gorham Manufacturing in Providence, RI. Robert J. Hill cast the inspired sculpture accomplished by company artist Aristide Cianfrani. Further turtleization came when the student yearbook, The Reveille, became The Terrapin in 1935. Newspapers, even then exploring every angle, shortened Terrapin to Terp for headline writing ease when it wasn't trying to cram Old Liner into a single column head. The name was in place; now came the stuff of legend.

The Stuff of Legend

The nicely thought out plans that made Testudo an instant hit did have a flaw. Putting Mr. T in front of the campus gym, Ritchie Coliseum, exposed Testudo to every road agent wearing enemy colors. Ritchie was right on U.S. Route 1, then the principal North-South highway along the Eastern Seaboard. When a less dignified opponent needed something extra against the turtle and his troops, they practiced emotional blackmail, and kidnapped him.

That was not the worst of it. They painted his golden skin enemy colors, and defaced his pedestal which was only to have the block M on it. Instead, opponents painted illegitimate JH's or GW's or V's or NC's on his nest. A riot took place when Johns Hopkins students kidnapped the handsome reptile in 1947; 200 police were called to the Baltimore campus to control the justified anger of College Park students. Two years later, the nifty shelled crusader was found on the lawn of a Virginia (The University) fraternity house, whose occupants smugly called President Byrd with the message to get Testudo off their lawn. Of course Byrd obliged, and soon after Testudo was hidden in the campus carpentry shop where he was less inspirational, but a whole lot safer.

The second stadium bearing Byrd's name was built in 1950, and in 1951 Testudo, sans coats of rivals' paint, took his perch in front of the Byrd Stadium football team house. He had beaten back all who would wrong him, and to make sure he would not travel again, he was fed 700 pounds of cement and had his body attached to a new pedestal by long steel rods.

With his permanent nesting came success for Maryland. Acting as guardian to waves of Terp competitors, the national football championship came, as did several ACC titles in the 1950s. His popularity among the students might have been the undoing of success, however. When McKeldin Library was constructed in the middle of campus, the student body demanded Testudo's full-time presence in the center of day-to-day activities. Testudo had gone far beyond being just a symbol for athletics. He was a campus symbol. Students carefully carried him up the hill to the main College Green and the library, and he was bolted to a new bed of stone in the early 1960s.

Coincidence or not, football did have a downturn in the 1960s with Testudo absent. In the 1970s, when a costumed Testudo started to roam the sideline, success was returning. The furry Testudo reigned over unrivaled ACC football prowess, and sent Terps out to the four corners of the football world for bowls and intersectional clashes.

In 1992, a bronze twin to Testudo was created and installed just outside the new Football Complex locker room door. As the football team takes the field the team congregates around the bronze Terrapin, and then all touch his nose for good luck.

Joel Meisner Co. of Farmingdale, N.Y., created the twin. Two men spent two days in June of 1992 pouring a rubberized material over Testudo as it sat in front of McKeldin Library, followed by a wax mold on top. After a day to let the molds set, the wax was broken and easily removed. The rubber mold, which actually recreated Testudo, was painstakingly peeled away from the bronze and taken back to Meisner's factory where the twin was created using the Lost Wax method.

While Testudo was being recreated in front of McKeldin, the research library was undergoing extensive refurbishment. As part of the new interior and exterior McKeldin received, the beast guarding its front doors, the original Testudo, was given a new pedestal and his bronze coat was cleaned. The Class of '33, which created Testudo in the first place, used its 60th reunion to dedicate the rejuvenated campus symbol.

Fifty-nine years ago, the Diamondback Turtle Gorham used as a model for the shelled wonder had a ribbon attached to it at the dedication. The ribbon was tied to the canvas covering the statue. The Diamondback moved forward, and revealed the splendor of his larger, bronzed brother. But no one rushed the smaller Diamondback in his duties. All in attendance were true believers who knew what many unfaithful have discovered about Terrapins. They bite.

THE UNIVERSITY AT COLLEGE PARK

These are great days at the University of Maryland at College Park. The university, through an act of the state legislature, has been designated officially as the state's flagship campus with a mandate to become one of the nation's leading public universities. The effect of that mandate is for individuals from all corners of the university to aspire toward excellence, to think great thoughts and to become immersed in an educational enterprise of the highest caliber. There is an unmistakable momentum for change and a sense of heightened expectation at College Park — Maryland is choosing quality.

The faculty have enthusiastically endorsed a new general education program that began in the fall of 1990. It is a blueprint for comprehensive changes in the undergraduate experience at Maryland. The campus is reducing its undergraduate enrollment, improving the ratio between faculty and students, raising admissions standards, revamping the University Honors Program, strengthening the advising system, supporting expanded undergraduate research, and encouraging innovations in teaching.

A new language house has opened where student residents have direct satellite access to foreign language television broadcasts from the USSR, Latin America, Italy and Japan, and where, in a total immersion setting, they have pledged to speak their chosen language at all times. A new honors house, a stimulating living-and-learning center for undergraduates taking part in the University Honors Program, opened in 1992. An international house, a living-learning environment that will meet the growing needs of the diverse international population on campus, opened in 1992, also.

Our location adds to the excitement on campus, too. Few regions in the nation have the intellectual, cultural and physical resources to compare with those in the Baltimore-Washington, D.C. corridor. College Park's location astride that corridor means that Maryland undergraduates may tap these resources to their fullest — through internships, research projects, cooperative work-study and other programs offering hands-on experience.

We invite you to take a closer look at the University of Maryland, its extensive academic programs, faculty, research facilities, student activities and support services and the resources and opportunities it offers. See for yourself the number of different ways in which Maryland is choosing quality. There has never been a better time to choose Maryland.

History

Just after the American Revolution, the state of Maryland established its first two colleges at Chestertown and Annapolis. By the 1850s, at least thirty little colleges had sprung up over the state, many with state support, but many of them disappearing within a few years. Then, in 1859 a different kind of institution appeared at College Park—the Maryland Agricultural College, the third such college in the world, created mainly for farmers' sons. The college was established by Charles Benedict Calvert, a wealthy planter from nearby Riversdale—now Riverdale—and later a congressman. Calvert built a handsome Gothic dormitory—classroom structure located in a grove of trees near the present Morrill Hall, and he divided the land down to the Baltimore-Washington Turnpike into small plots where each of the 50-or-so students experimented with a different agricultural crop. After the Civil War the institution became a land-grant college, with small appropriations from Washington. The little college began to grow about 1900 when agricultural experiments began to bring prosperity to Maryland, and when the college expanded its offerings into engineering, business and the liberal arts. In 1912 the old Gothic building burned, and the state provided modern structures. Women were admitted to the campus, and graduate work began. In 1920 the college combined with the long-established professional schools of Baltimore and changed its name to the University of Maryland. Growth accelerated after 1935 when the politically astute football coach, H.C. 'Curley' Byrd became president, added scores of new programs, and won national football championships. In the 1950s and 1960s, President Wilson H. Elkins maintained the rapid growth, and College Park became one of the largest campuses in the nation. President Elkins, a Rhodes Scholar, transformed the institution's public image from that of a party school to one of academic integrity. In the 1970s and 1980s, the university's graduate and research programs flourished. In 1988, the General Assembly of Maryland combined six state colleges with the five campuses of the University of Maryland, and specifically charged College Park with the role of leadership. The University of Maryland at College Park recognizes its special responsibility as the flagship and the largest of the eleven institutions within the statewide university system to lead the University of Maryland's quest for excellence. To this end, College Park offers broad coverage in the traditional arts and sciences as well as in a wide range of professional and pre-professional programs. The institution is organized into fourteen colleges and schools encompassing over 100 departments and campus-wide programs of study. A growing number of these departments and programs rank among the best in the nation. Today the University of Maryland at College Park stands, by any measure, as one of the leading institutions of higher education in the world.

Locale

The state of Maryland is unrivalled in its scenic beauty, its rich heritage, and its wealth of educational, recreational, and cultural opportunities. From the mountain passes of Garrett County in the west, to the sand dunes of Assateague Island on the Eastern Shore, and the cosmopolitan excitement of Baltimore and Washington, DC, there is an unparalleled variety of experiences and resources available to students at the university.

Nine miles from the nation's capital, the University of Maryland at College Park is within easy reach of the country's best research facilities. The Library of Congress, the National Archives (whose new facility is being constructed adjacent to the campus), the Smithsonian Institution and the National Libraries of Agriculture and Medicine are among the many unique resources in the area.

In addition to traditional scholarly resources, the campus is surrounded by the dynamic cultural opportunities that only a major metropolitan area can provide. The Kennedy Center alone houses the National Symphony Orchestra, five performance stages, an opera company, and the American Film Institute.

In Baltimore, one of the great ports of the world, a recent and remarkable renaissance has added the glistening touch of office towers and hotels to the quaint shops and ethnic restaurants of its many colorful neighborhoods. Harborplace and the National Aquarium anchor the Inner Harbor, which has become a cultural magnet for thousands of tourists each year.

The Chesapeake Bay accounts for nearly 20 percent of Maryland's acreage, and is a focal point for the serious study of estuarine ecology as well as a recreational treasure. It is the source of Maryland's famed crabs and other seafood specialties, and a refuge for many species of water fowl.

Not far from any point in the state is evidence of the burgeoning development which has made Maryland a model for economic growth and fiscal health. High tech, engineering, and service industries thrive in proximity to the campus, offering a wide spectrum of opportunities for work-study or internships for students and career choices for graduates.

The University of Maryland at College Park, as the flagship campus of the state higher education system, is a vital part of Maryland's current prosperity and its vision for the future. For students here, the state offers a bounteous extension to the campus's own wealth of opportunity.
